Walter S. Rouse Laid To Rest

Funeral services over the remains of Walter S. Rouse, who passed away at midnight last Thursday night were held in the Stake House Sunday afternoon with Bishop J. O. Hicken in charge. There was a large crowd of friends and acquaintances present to show their respect, and the pearl grey casket and rostrum were covered with flowers. The Choir was in charge of Ira McBride with Roi Stone at the organ. Hymns were "Oh My Father," "We Lay Thee Softly Down to Sleep" and "Shall We Meet Beyond the River." Mrs. L. D. King and Mrs. J. H. Walker sang "Good Morning Up There," and Jos. McLean sang as a special request number "Home on the Range" a favorite of deceased.

Speakers were Elders Arthur Dahl and T. O. King, close friends of deceased for many years. Both spoke of his fine qualities of honesty and dependability and independence. His word was as good as his bond, and in the game of life he treated everyone fairly and expected to be treated the same. He and Arthur Dahl had grown up in the same town in Utah and it was largely due to the persuasion of Walter Rouse that he had come to Canada. They had been acquainted for over sixty years. T. O. King had met deceased at the McIntyre Ranch in 1899, and from that time on they had been intimate friends. As a stock man and a farmer Walter Rouse was successful and was a keen judge. He liked things nice and his home, cattle and horses and equipment were always the best that could be had and were well taken care of. He was a retiring man who loved his home and fireside and never took any part to speak of in public life.

His first wife, a sister of Ted Gourley, passed away in 1928, and some years later he married again and his second wife was with him at the end, and during the past three years or so, while his health had been failing, she had done everything that human hands could do to alleviate his suffering and make his life more happy. The opening prayer was by El-

ELDERS LEAVING SOUTH AMERICA

Elder Denton "Bud" Brewerton, son of Mrs. Harding and the late Harding Brewerton, who has spent the past two and a half years in the Argentine is on his way home now, having left the Southern Continent by clipper plane on Wednesday, going via Chile, Peru, Colombia, Panama Canal, Central America Mexico and Texas and travelling from there by rail.

All of the South American Missionaries are being evacuated as rapidly as their missions are completed and Bud was amongst the first group to return under instruction from General Authorities via Clipper. Bud is hoping to get here sometime during the summer for a visit. He finished his High School education here and spent a couple of years in a bank in Los Angeles, Cal., before leaving for his mission.

Geo. Thompson and Lloyd West have put an addition to the Sugar City Municipal house near the Bradley home.

There is A Place for Pity

GIVE TO RELIEVE HUMAN SUFFERING

Editorial from Liberty Magazine

It sometimes seems that there is little room for pity in this war. It is a grim business, a business of death and destruction the world-wide misery. We are living through the bitterest and most dreadful pages of all the world's long history.

There is little enough to lighten the gloom. There is no age that has shown so much cruelty and sorrow. But even into all its darkness there are some gleams of light. There is the high lift of courage and devotion that emerges from the darkest stories. Our hearts can still be stirred by the records of unwavering heroism in the fields of battle on land on the sea and in the air, and the no less heroic battle of the noncombatants who travel the seaways of the world.

But these things are apart from us who, for one reason or another have not been called to such sacrifices. It seems that there is so little that we can do. Perhaps what is demanded of many of us is merely the uncomplaining sacrifice of needed things that we may help sustain the courage of those who must daily meet the need for courage.

There is a place for pity. There is something that every one can do about it. It may not be just the thing we would have sought to do. It may not be as active or as personal as we might have wished. But there is nothing impersonal about a service that can take pity into an internment camp and into the horrors of bombed cities, that can soothe anxiety and soften loneliness and care for the sick and troubled and injured. In all the writings of the world there are no more moving words than these: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." That is the spirit of the Red Cross, the agency that more than any other, has kept pity in our world.

For the first time in almost a year and a half the Canadian Red Cross is appealing for necessary funds to carry on this are now past it has spent more than sixteen million dollars in its task of mercy. It has done an amazing work that, because of its international character, it alone can do. It is only through its enquiry bureau that anxious relatives can know the fate of those who have been taken prisoner and can do something for their comfort.

They have been sending weekly 40,000 parcels to prisoners of war. Now they are being asked to double the number.

Who will see to that?

It is to meet these needs that the Canadian Red Cross is asking Canadians to support its work. The Government cannot assist it as it is assisting other charitable war efforts. The essence of the Red Cross Society's ability to serve is that it shall not receive support from any government. Its charter, that gives it its special opportunities of service, demands that it be a service provided by people who voluntarily give to its support. If that source of income fails, the effort of the Canadian Red Cross must fail.

What would that mean? It would mean instead of 80,000 weekly parcels to prisoners, there would be no parcels at all. It would mean no more gifts to the sorely strained British Red Cross. It would mean no mobile kitchens for Britain's fire fighters, no hospitals supplied, no blood bank, no aid to air-raid victims, no hospital comforts, no sailors' clubs, no recreation centres, no contact with prisoners of war, none of the innumerable services that the Red Cross means to people who need pity the world over. There could be none of these unless someone else took up the task that no one can do as well.

All that the Red Cross asks is 23. It asks for nine million dollars in a familiar phrase:

"Give us the tools and we will finish the job."

This is the chance for any Canadian. The Red Cross campaign runs from May 11 to May of the people of Canada can be as. It is a lot of money, but is your share of it too much to ask of you to put a little pity more than any other, has kept

Choir Evening At 2nd. Ward Greatly Enjoyed

LIGHT RAIN VERY TIMELY

After a cold day Saturday afternoon, some rain fell Sunday forenoon, and then again Monday forenoon the rain fell quite steadily for three or four hours, although at no time was it really heavy. While light, it will do much good and is greatly appreciated as the top soil was getting very dry and germination would have been greatly delayed.

At the end of the week beet seeding was well advanced with possibly 80 p. c. of the fields seeded. Wheat was possibly thirty five per cent seeded over the district as a whole, and seeding of coarse grains and hay land was just getting nicely started.

Isn't it a funny thing, or is it? That a booster never knocks, and a knocker never boosts.

If you are not a paid subscriber to this paper, you ought to be. We are trying to do our share to build Raymond and the district and we need your assistance. SUBSCRIBE NOW.

Board Of Trade Meeting

Because of the plebiscite, the Board of Trade meeting for Monday was deferred until Thursday evening of last week. A fair crowd was in attendance and a good meeting held.

J. W. Evans, President of the Board outlined some of the accomplishments of the organization during the past year, and stressed the need of everyone supporting it, and the good that could be accomplished by a good strong Board representative of all the business and industrial interests of the district.

The Nominating Committee appointed at the previous meeting then brought in their recommendations for Board of Trade officials for the coming year as follows:

J. W. Evans, President.
John F. Salmon, Vice-President.

J. Orvin Hicken, Secretary

Treasurer.

L. D. King, Chairman of the Stampede Committee.
Frank R. Taylor, Roads.
R. F. Walshe, Membership.
Dr. Frank Hall, Publicity.
Alvin W. Jones, New Industries.

S. I. May, Program.

These Chairmen will choose their own help.

The Hospital Committee was asked to report, and information was being gathered and a conversation with a Cabinet member had assured the assistance of the Provincial Government. A number of questions were asked and a discussion ensued. Committee was asked to continue their work.

The Annual Stampede was discussed, and the sentiment was in favor of a Stampede, but it was decided that contact be made with the business houses to get their reaction to a Stampede and a final decision was held up. Present conditions with respect to travel by car made outside attendance problematical and if there was a lack of interest locally it was felt maybe the Stampede had better be deferred. Definite decision was left with the Stampede Committee.

The 2nd Ward Choir presented a Budget party Thursday and Friday evenings of last week that was well staged and was decidedly enjoyable. The lateness of the season cut down the attendance, but even so there was a good-sized crowd on hand each night to listen to the numbers. The evening was divided into three parts.

The first part was devoted to Choral singing by the entire group, and they gave a fine rendition of numbers including sacred and semi-sacred anthems and oratorios, classic music and a number or two in lighter strain. The second portion was made up of solos, both vocal and instrumental, duets, quartets and readings and a galaxy of local talent was featured in this portion of the program, and the audience greatly enjoyed every number.

The laugh of the evening came in the third part when comedy ruled the roost. In song and joke the performers kept the crowd in gales of laughter, the colored boys and their minstrel show with their jokes and puns being especially good.

The thanks of the members of the ward are due Jos. McLean as Choir leader and his assistants for the time and effort consumed in arranging and staging such a fine program. It is a real undertaking to carry on a program of this size, those taking part reap their reward in the development that comes to them, but it is still a big job and our congratulations are extended to Jos. and his help for their toil and effort for the fine program presented.

You probably wouldn't worry about what people think of you if you knew how seldom they do.

The labor situation should be well solved now judging by the number of Japanese families who have arrived during the past two weeks. A number of growers have been busy building new houses in some cases and renovating others to receive their families of laborers.

LIONS CLUB MEETING

The regular meeting of the Raymond Lions Club was held in the Sugar Bowl, Monday May 4th. The meeting opened by singing "Oh Canada" and prayer was offered by Lion L. D. King.

Community singing was enjoyed by the 34 members present.

Dr. Madill spoke to the members about the arrangements that could be made with the Government for the taking over of the Mental Hospital building for a Provincial Hospital. The Club went on record as being 100 p. c. in favor of the Hospital being established.

After thanking the Doctor for his information the regular drawing for the War Savings Certificates took place and the lucky members were Lions J. Mehew and L. D. King.

Lions Geo. Ralsh and L. D. King were appointed Auditors for the Financial Statement which will be presented the first meeting in June.

With the advice of the Optometrist it was decided not to have another Eye Clinic until after the opening of the next School term.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

The Western Five Warms Up

The Western Five provides Canadian radio with one of its most interesting anomalies. The programme is devoted to the songs of the wide open spaces. The music comes out at break-neck speed and is played by as smooth a pack of sophisticates as ever, steered clear of a rodeo steer. The shrine of their activities swank studio "A" at CBC's handsome studios in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa. Featured left to right: Oral Scher, vocalist; Woody Hill, guitarist; Cammie Howard, leader-arranges; Gene Cloutier, violinist; and Red Calloway, the trumpet player which triples in xylophone and string bass. The Western Five goes into session Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5:00 p. m. CDT, (4:00 p. m. MDT).

THE HOSPITAL QUESTION

The Hospital question is the cause of a great deal of debate at the present time. It is a question which every person should consider very carefully, and we believe that after careful consideration, every person would gladly lend any support they can to such an undertaking. Let us face a few facts.

We have our Sugar Factory here which during the campaign lasting about four months of each year, employs nearly 300 men and women. We have no hospital. In the past there have been accidents, while we will not say that a hospital here may have saved lives, we say that a hospital here would have saved many hours of suffering and anxious waiting. One he cannot possibly be here to look after emergencies as they arise. Why? Because of no hospital.

Again with the rationing of gasoline and the freezing of tire sales travel is a problem. When people are sick they like visitors and especially members of their family. One local citizen remarked recently that in the illness of himself and two members of his family he had driven over three thousand miles in less than a month. On 60 units of gas a person could not do that many times in the year. How much time and money would that individual have saved if we had a hospital here? Give the matter a little thought and be honest in your decisions.

What will it cost? Well this question depends upon a number of things. Carleton and district have a very fine Municipal Hospital that furnishes hospitalization of a very high order at a very nominal cost. Their millage throughout the district for the hospital is 2 mills. Contract holders who do not own property may purchase their first contract for $10.00 per year, and their family, and it may be renewed annually for $6.00 per annum. Cheap insurance, whether you need it or not. Contract holders get rates of $1.00 per day, drugs and dressings free, $10.00 for the operating room for major & $5.00 for minor operations, and reduced rates on private and semi-private wards, if needed. Doctor's contracts are, of course, separate.

Think what a hospital means to a district. Accidents happen and painful ones. A local hospital would mean getting injured persons to hospital and to professional care at once. You could visit your loved ones daily with out expense and they could enjoy the pleasure of being at home with friends and loved ones. Think of the aged who need a rest cure occasionally, and who could spend a week or two in the Hospital in real enjoyment and come out refreshed and invigorated. There are a thousand reasons why everyone should boost for it.

In the Hospital set-up as contemplated, after the institution is given the O. K. by the Department of Health of the Province, the Province pays 50c. per day per patient as a direct grant and according to financial statements of some hospitals this amounts to as much as 20 p.c. of their total operating costs for the year. This matter is being thoroughly studied and investigated by a Committee appointed by the Board of Trade & every interested person should give it very serious study and lend all possible support to the idea. It may be your turn next to need a hospital and wouldn't you like to be at home instead of 20

HEAVY STOCK SHIPMENTS

During the month of April, when the movement of fat beef reaches its peak, Raymond really does a big business in rail shipments. Last month there were 180 cars, with an average of 25 cattle per car shipped out, or a total of 4,500 head of fat beef. Averaging this at $1,600 per car, which is a very conservative estimate at present prices, these shipments would bring local feeders between $275,00 and $280,000, which is a nice sum of money to be scattered out amongst the farmers.

The majority of the feeder stock is now moved. There are still some sheep, the odd herd of two and three year old steers and quite a large number of calves, the latter of which do not commence to move until mid-summer usually about the month of July, when they are approximately 15 months old. Each year for the past two or three years, more farmers have entered the feeder business, until hay and pulp this last winter have been practically unobtainable, hay having been hauled 60 to 70 miles by some feeders.

SEEDING GRASSES AND LEGUMES IN SPRING

THIS IS A GOOD YEAR TO SEED FLAX

Establishing satisfactory stands of grasses and legumes is the first consideration in the successful production of such crops. Partial stands permit weak growth which reduces yield and quality of hay. Failures mean loss of seed and the expense of seeding the same or another crop. Several methods of seeding grasses and legumes have been tested at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, for a six-year period with fairly conclusive results, states R. M. MacIsaac, Assistant in Field Crops.

Common causes of poor stands from spring plantings are that late because of the rush of seeding if often delayed too grain seeding; seeding with a nurse crop of grain, or seeding too deep on an unprepared seed bed. Shallow seeding in contact with moisture is necessary to permit the seedlings to become established. As this condition usually exists in early spring, results from dates of seed important that seeding be done early. Results from dates of seed ing crested wheat grass and sweet clover, showed that plantings made as soon as possible gave the best stands. Seedings after the land was workable made two weeks later gave a considerable decrease in stand and those done after May 20 were below fifty per cent. This was especially true for crested wheat grass, which does best in cool temperatures. In those areas where the danger of late spring frosts exists, seeding of legumes should be delayed. The findings from dates of seeding brome grass showed that it might be sown a couple of weeks later in the spring than crested wheat grass without any reduction in stand.

As seeding of grain will be in full swing at this date, it will probably be best to sow the grass before wheat seeding commences. Results from seeding grasses and legumes with a nurse crop of grain at the Station and on Illustration Stations definitely show that this practice cannot be recommended for west-central and north-western Saskatchewan. In most cases partial failure stands have been obtained. Even where the occasional satisfactory stand was obtained, yields of hay the established, yields of hay the

For patriotic reasons, as well as for good, sound financial reasons, this should be a good year to grow flax. Canada needs more flax for her war effort. It is estimated that the demand for flax in 1942-43 will be between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels, which is approximately three times the production of 1941. In an effort to secure this production the Dominion Government has pegged the price of flax at $2.25 per bushel, basis R. M. William. Additional returns from flax will be received in cases where the $2.00 per acre bonus will apply. This should make flax a profitable crop.

One of the primary requisites in producing a successful flax crop is that the seedlings in the following year were too low as a result of the moisture used by the nurse crop.

While summerfallow land gives the best assurance of a stand in dry seasons, early seeding on spring ploughed stubble without a nurse crop has always given satisfactory stands on loam soils at the Scott Station. These crops establish themselves only in the year of seeding and there is normally sufficient moisture for this growth. Furthermore spring ploughed land can usually be worked finer than summerfallow with less danger from soil drifting. After cultivating the fallow or ploughing the stubble, depending on which land is used for seeding, it should be harrowed and well packed to insure shallow seeding. All operations should be done in fairly quick succession to prevent the land from drying out. Choose the method of seeding that will eliminate any danger from soil drifting. There is less danger from drifting if the tillage operations are done early in the spring. It is essential that seeding be shallow, one-half to one inch deep, or the seed just covered. If the land is too loose to permit seeding shallow enough pull the spouts out of the disks and sow the seed broadcast after harrowing. Before putting seed into the drill box, make sure the cups are thoroughly clean to permit free running of the seed.

crop is that the land should be clean as flax is one of the poorest crops to fight weeds. When clean land is provided flax will usually return approximately half as many bushels as wheat would return under the same conditions. In order for flax to be as profitable as wheat the price for it should, therefore be double that of wheat, but, as shown above, the price for this year's crop is considerably more than double that of wheat.

Flax requires a firm seed bed. Ploughing or deep cultivation as for other cereal crops should not be given to land intended for flax.

If proper precautions are taken there are no more hazards to contend with in the growing of flax than in any of the other cereal crops. Grasshoppers, are, no doubt, the worst of the insects pests affecting flax and where these are likely to be very troublesome, it would probably not be advisable to grow flax. Several years ago flax was used to cause appreciable losses in flax, but this can now be avoided by choosing wilt resistant varieties, such as Bison or Royal in the southern part of the province, and Red Wing, an earlier but lower yielding variety, in the northern part.

Flax is sometimes grown in combination with wheat. This facilitates cutting when harvest is done with a binder, but apart from that this method of seeding has little to recommend it as the returns from this mixture are usually not much greater than what would be received from the same crop grown singly.

Half a bushel of wheat and half a bushel of flax per acre is about the right proportion to use in areas where rainfall is usually fairly plentiful. It should be remembered that flax should be sown shallow. A mixture of wheat and flax should, therefore, not be sown as deep as wheat should be sown alone.

Sport Fishing from Coast to Coast

A TOPSY-TURVY world seems right side up again when viewed by an angler from the bank of a fast-flowing Canadian stream or from the prow of a canoe on a tranquil Canadian lake. Nor does any form of recreation pay richer dividends in health at a time when physical fitness plays so vital a role in war work.

The Canadian fishing picture is further enhanced by ideal rail and hotel services of the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose lines take the angler direct to the best fishing centres in the country. From the St. Lawrence and Saguenay Rivers, Lakes of the Woods, and Western Ontario's rugged Lake Superior country, where muskies top the 10-pound mark. Guides, bait, and tackle are available at larger resorts.

Other famous fishing centres include Quebec's Laurentians, Gatineau Park, Eastern Townships, Lake Umbagog and Muskegon Lakes, where a guide will lead you to the best fishing spots. A 1942 prototype of Tom Sawyer (left centre) gets good results without the benefit of 1942 equipment.

Big Naval Battle

This morning's news over the radio reported one of the biggest naval engagements of the present war in progress off the Solomon Islands and surrounding waters. A Japanese invasion force, presumably on its way to Australia was intercepted by United Nations ships and a first rate battle commenced, with aircraft carriers, destroyer, battleships, planes and everything else taking part. The latest despatches on the situation reported the Allies as definitely having the best of the fight.

The Red Cross Needs Your Help—Dig Down

"Hitler would just love to see how smart you look!"

"Yes, you're smart... or are you? I thought I was smart too, back in the 20's. Then the depression came and taught me a lesson!"

"We'd be a lot smarter if we put less of our money into our own outfits and more of it into the outfits of the boys who are defending us. How? By pledging ourselves to do without so that they may have plenty to do with!"

"You want them to win, don't you? Well then, buy War Savings Stamps every week... That's how you can help them. Besides, by saving, you'll help keep prices down and have something for a rainy day. Let's be really smart!"

Buy War Savings Stamps from banks, post offices, druggists, grocers and other retail stores.
